Albany School Board Elects To Spend $75,000

WARD SCHOOLS WILL RECEIVE PRINCIPAL SUMS FOR REPAIRS

Plans Of St Louis Firm Are Accepted By School Board

WORK TO BEGIN IN FEW WEEKS

Gordon And Central Schools To Have New System

Approximately $75,000 will be spent during the summer months on the buildings belonging to the Albany school system, it was announced today at the conclusion of a meeting of the school board at the Morgan County National bank at 10:30 this morning. Construction work will be underway within the next two to three weeks, it is hoped.

With a representative of William Ittner Company, St. Louis, architects, the school board this morning heard the plans explained in detail. B. Beard, B. L. Malone, John Patterson and Superintendent N. F. Greenhill were present at the meeting and went into the plans fully.

It is estimated that $75,000 will be spent during the summer months on the remodeling of three ward buildings in east, south and west Albany. Team heat will be placed in these buildings, the rooms plastered and painted.

New sanitary systems will be placed in the Gordon school and old high school buildings on Gordon Drive. Some equipment will be purchased for use at the new high school building so located in central Albany.

It is expected that the entire work of remodeling and the adding of equipment will be concluded before the opening of the school term in the fall months.

Play rooms and assembly rooms, combined, are added features in each of the ward school buildings and a future heretofore neglected in the rear buildings.

The plans as submitted by Mr. Locker of William B. Ittner company have been selected. Bids for the work will be asked.

Truck Burns After Wreck On Highway

Willie Gibson, driver of a truck which was wrecked on the highway near Russellville last Friday, is able to get out after having suffered minor injuries in the accident. Mr. Gibson reported that while he was away from the scene, in an effort to obtain help getting the machine back on the road, someone took the tires from the truck and set it afire.

Co-operation Asked On Tax Notices

Co-operation of the public has been requested by John Wilks, assistant city clerk of Albany, who is engaged in serving street tax notices in the four wards of the city. He urged that citizens aid him in the work that may be done properly and promptly.

Greenhill Will Be Here Thru Summer

N. F. Greenhill, superintendent of the Albany school system, will remain here through the summer months, he stated today. Mr. Greenhill declared that he would remain on the ground aid in supervision of building program which will be underway within short time in Albany schools. Mr. Greenhill will leave toward the latter part of the summer for a short vacation.

MANAGING EDITOR GETS HEAVY FINE

Courtroom Pictures Are Cause For Bringing Contempt Charge

(Associated Press)

BALTIMORE, June 1—Harold E. Elliston, managing editor of the Baltimore News, today was sentenced to one day in jail and fined $5,000 by criminal court judge Eugene O'Dunne for contempt of court in the publication of courtroom pictures of the Richard Reese Whittemore trial of the 21st.

Harry Clark, city editor of the News, Earl C. Deland, managing editor of the Baltimore American and William Klemm and William Sturm, photographers for the two newspapers each was sentenced to one day in jail with no fine. Counsel for the newspaper men filed notice of appeal and Judge O'Dunne admitted them to bail.

For Albany-Decatur Daily.

In offering Mr. Brisbane's daily editorials The Albany-Decatur Daily does not necessarily concur with his opinions, but offers them as the sentiments of the highest paid editorial writer in this country.

ANCIENT rulers liked uncouth dwarfs and strangely deformed creatures about them. In that respect the human race is not entirely changed.

In Los Angeles an undertaker builds an unusual coffin for Theodore Valenzuela, known to the circus as "One-ton Tom." He weighed 945 pounds.

People paid to see him. If he had weighed only forty-five pounds they would have paid to see him, and if he had had two heads, fat or thin, they would have paid more.

WITH "One-ton Tom" and everybody else too fat, the trouble is over-eating or defective metabolism. Part of our energy creates new tissue. Another part gets rid of old tissue. When old tissue stays, you get fat.

Beware of fat after fifty. It shortens life.

THE good Bishop William Montgomery Brown, put out of the Episcopal church for doing his own thinking, tried to compel the church by legal procedure to take him back. His lawyers sued "the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States of America."

But the court says there is no such organization, no such thing for Bishop Brown to sue, so his suit was dismissed.

The court adjourns for the summer within a few days and Justice Green said that it was doubtful if the opinion would be handed down before the fall term.

The arguments today, as yesterday, ran the whole range from the short Genesis story of the creation to the involved calculation of scientists.

"It is nothing but a question of the intellectual freedom of man," Mr. Darrow called the case.

VISITING OFFICERS LOUD IN PRAISING MASONIC TEMPLE

Secretary Beauchamp Says Structure Next To Best In State

OVER 200 MASONS IN ATTENDANCE

Banquet Enjoyed With Grand Lodge Officers Present For Event

With a number of grand lodge officers and more than 200 local members of the Masonic bodies, the dedication of the recently rebuilt Masonic temple here was brought to a close last night with a banquet.

During the afternoon a reception was held, at which time many persons took advantage of the opportunity to see the beautiful appointments of the chapter and commandery rooms on the second and third floors of the handsome building.

Grand lodge officers gathered here for the occasion included: J. M. Pearson, of Alexander City, deputy grand master of the grand lodge of Alabama; Fred Wall of Athens, grand senior warden; Dr. R. F. Lovelady, of Birmingham; junior grand warden; George A. Beauchamp, of Montgomery, grand secretary; H. G. Earnest, of Montgomery, member of the board of trustees of the Masonic home.

Following an excellent repast served by the ladies of the Eastern Star in the spacious banquet room of the building, addresses were made by the visitors, complimenting very highly the local lodges on their new and commodious structure.

Mr. Beauchamp, a familiar figure in the Masonic organizations of the state for many years, declared that with one exception the local temple was the most convenient and best arranged Masonic structure in the state. To the many members of the local Masonic lodges who gave freely of their time in working out the details of the building, Mr. Beauchamp's message was most gratifying, as well as to the membership as a whole.

James Johnson presided as toastmaster, introducing the various officials and Prof. H. T. Lile, who also made an interesting address. The program was interspersed with very enjoyable musical numbers.

Scopes Evolution Case Before Court

(Associated Press)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 1.—The supreme court of Tennessee today received the Scopes evolution case. Before the court an appeal from conviction of the Dayton school teacher in Rhea county circuit court, the case was submitted by counsel for John Scopes and for the state by seven hours of oral argument yesterday.

Clarence Darrow, of Chicago, concluded in a speech in which he questioned the wording of the law, and lauded the advance of science.

K. T. McConico, of counsel for the state, and Thomas H. Malone, as amicus curiae, preceded Mr. Darrow on the floor as speakers.

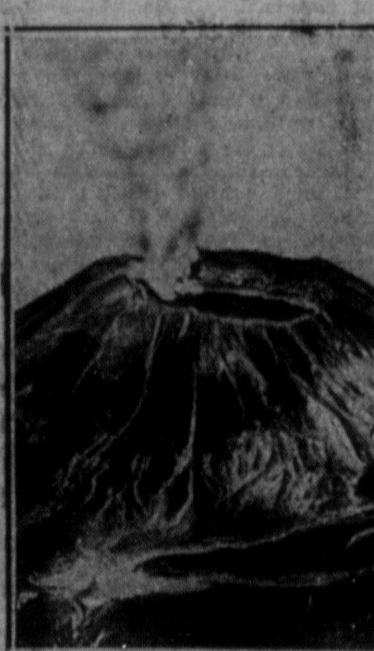

The arguments today, as yesterday, ran the whole range from the short Genesis story of the creation to the involved calculation of scientists.

"It is nothing but a question of the intellectual freedom of man," Mr. Darrow called the case.

SYNOPSIS

Mrs. Molly Cochran invited Arthur Bancroft to a large dinner at the Governor's house because he was visiting at the home of one of the other guests. He turned out to be an eastern lawyer of a different political faction than the Governor. A few mornings later, Mrs. Cochran is surprised to receive a call from Stephen Renfro, a former dance, who wants her to influence Cochran to support him for Governor. She declares Cochran always makes his own decisions.

CHAPTER XXIV—Continued

If anyone should ask, as Arthur Bancroft was asking of his pretty and plump partner while they stood waiting to fall in line for the grand march, why people dance in such a climate, her answer might serve, "Well, we must dance, and—it's the only climate we have!"

A little later he was bowing over the hand of Mrs. Cochran the younger.

"I've just learned that there is to be an extra after the fourteenth," he said. "That's the one you promised me, you know."

She looked down at her program. "Was it the one after the fourteenth?"

"Yes, I've been trying all evening to get near enough to remind you, but you've been so absolutely be-lea-ured."

"Oh, just these university boys—friends of Larry's, Larry's my brother, you know." She gave a smiling, affectionate nod in the direction of the tall chap with the reddish hair.

When the orchestra began to tune for the next dance, Bancroft looked down at Molly. "Am I to have the honor?"

"Would you mind—sitting it out?" she asked. "These irrepressible youths have just about danced me down!"

"You don't look it, but—as you like." He made a suggestive motion toward one of the balconies,

There was a veiled threat.

rapidly emptying as the tide turned tailroomward. "I particularly wanted a few words with you," he added when they were on the balcony, effectively screened from the dancing-room by an embankment of palms. "I've had wires calling me back East at once, and I probably shan't have another chance."

"You mean—about the story?" she said lightly.

"Yes. You talked with Mr. Renfro this morning?"

She nodded. "Did he deliver my message?"

"He did."

"Mr. Renfro hasn't anything to do with the story, has he?"

"He's one of the chief characters."

"Oh! It is a political story then?"

"Pandy. You haven't by any chance changed your mind—about helping him with your husband?"

She shook her head. "It wouldn't be any good if I did."

"Oh, come now, a clever woman can do just about as she likes with a devoted husband—especially if he happens to be twenty years her senior!"

Molly glanced suggestively toward the ballroom. "I said all there was to say on that subject to Mr. Renfro."

He left that for the time. "I wish you would—change your mind now. It would make everything easier. You see," he smiled frankly, "I've quite come to like you..."

"What has that to do with it?"

"The truth is," he said at last, "we've got to have your help. We want you to make your husband see that it's to his advantage to throw his coming election to Renfro. The present administration has caused us—the people we represent—to lose millions. If things are to go on like this we stand to lose millions more. I'm sure you see the point I'm trying to make..."

"The point is clear enough," Molly said, "but—I'm afraid I don't see what it has to do with me."

"Everything, believe me."

"If you'll pardon me—I see my

TUSCUMELIA, Ala., June 1—Special—Declaring that some of the largest daily newspapers of the state are lending their editorial support to certain candidates for governor in the hope that the publishers of these newspapers may control public affairs in Alabama during the next four years Honorable A. H. Carmichael, candidate for governor issued this statement today on the editorial announcement appearing Sunday in the Birmingham Age-Herald and associated newspapers:

"Two lines of hostile Alabama newspapers are engaged in a political duel. The cause of the battle is: Who shall control the next Governor of Alabama? Who shall dominate the next administration?

The Birmingham News and Montgomery Advertiser some weeks ago designated Honorable Charles S. McDowell as their favorites. Now comes Age-Herald and its allied papers and name Honorable A. G. Patterson a foreman, who is a vote-getter and who will surely vanquish the Advertiser's Moses.

"The voters of Alabama will not permit these hostile papers to try out the issue in the Governor's race as to who is the biggest man, Victor Hanson or Fred Thompson. This is an important question and one of long standing, but there is too much involved at this time for the people to be bothered with that question.

"The fact is, its solution is not paramount. There are great state interests involved—schools, roads, health law enforcement. I believe the voters of Alabama should proceed to the election of a governor who will promote these interests and that they will not be controlled in the least by the bloody battle between the newspapers.

"If elected Governor of Alabama, and I have no doubt of winning the race, I shall have no Deputy Governors. I shall be equally accessible to every voter in Alabama. I shall not be controlled by newspapers."

To save life and limb

THE peril of the road crossing has become a national problem with the multiplication of automobiles.

The Southern Railway System has eliminated 800 grade crossings, and is eliminating more every year, but over 6,000 remain to be separated on this system alone. The total cost to complete the work is a stupendous sum—probably half as much as the cost to build the railroads.

Even if the money were available, and the public willing to pay the increased freight and passenger rates necessary to provide a fair return on it, many years would be required to do the work.

Protection from the peril for the present generation at least must be found in some other way. Trains cannot stop at every crossing if they are to be run at the sustained speed expected by the public and required to carry the commerce of the country. The train crosses a highway about every mile. The motorist encounters a railroad only occasionally.

It is necessary, therefore, for the automobile driver to stop in order to avoid risk. No one who did this was ever killed.

It is better to save a life than to save a minute.

Miss Richardson Arrives Tuesday

(Associated Press)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 1—Over 700 Alabama Shriners are in Philadelphia today prior to the opening of the annual meeting of the imperial council of the Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine of which David W. Crosland, of this city is slated to be elected imperial potente tomorrow.

The Shriners from Alabama went to Philadelphia upon a special train to attend the annual meeting which will be held from June 1 to 4 in Philadelphia.

Much enthusiasm throughout the state has been evidenced upon the ascension of one of Alabama's own men to the highest position in the states in that fraternal body. A special ceremonial was given here to Crosland by the Alcazar temple, of which he is a member. Reports coming back here stated that much merriment was evidenced upon the trail enroute to Philadelphia to see Crosland elevated.

All of the three temples of the order in the state sent a large delegation on the special, nearly every section of Alabama being represented.

Zamora Temple, of Birmingham contributed about 350 delegates, Alcazar Temple of Montgomery, about 250 and Abba Temple of Mobile about 150.

Among the delegation on the trip were the bands, drill and degree teams of the temples which are to fete the incoming imperial potente with parades and exercises while in Philadelphia.

Zamora Temple has taken out insurance on the entire party, protecting the benefit fund of the Temple.

Shriners from throughout the Southland also made up the train, the Southerners equally claiming the honor as well as the Alabamians.

ployed by the Community board, to take active and personal charge of the community houses in the Twin Cities, will arrive in Albany-Decatur Tuesday and immediately begin her duties.

P. J. Edwards, mayor pro-tem, was elected mayor to succeed Henry Skeggs, at a meeting of the council Saturday night, Mr. Skeggs having resigned to become United States marshal.

J. S. Patterson was elected member of the Decatur aldermanic board Saturday evening, to fill the vacancy caused by the election of Captain Edwards as mayor.

Joe Cornish and Joe Woods have returned from the University of Alabama.

William Crawford is in Birmingham today.

Mrs. John Pointer is ill at her home on Church street.

The bathing beauty season should likewise prove beneficial for opticians and optometrists.

Weather like this is good for the cotton crop, but not so good for the cotton price.

One disaster after another is the lot of the Japanese. Now a volcanic eruption takes the lives of hundreds.

The Tuskegee man, condemned to death, who took his own life while awaiting execution, at least, saved the state any additional expense.

Americans are hard to stop. Jess Sweetser, American born and reared, went to Scotland and won Great Britain's most prized golfing trophy.

Professional courtesy is an excellent attribute in any profession, until such time as it affects adversely the public welfare. Then it becomes a nuisance.

The Daily hopes that Messrs. Bankhead and Kilby will perfect their arrangements to have one of their debates in the Twin Cities. The people of this section would enjoy hearing these two distinguished orators discuss the Muscle Shoals and other issues of the campaign.

Dr. Louis L. Dublin, statistician of one of the large insurance companies, is quoted as authority for the declaration that a person is not old until after passing the 65th milestone. Dr. Dublin's conclusion is subject to debate. Some people we know appear young in age, but old and decrepit in their mental processes. Then one encounters Dr. G. R. Sullivan, local physician, who, now in his 89th year, is bright-eyed, cheery and mentally alert, busy with plans now for his annual vacation. Age is more a matter of individuals. Dr. Dublin's general classification will not stand up.

In an editorial captioned "Something More Convincing About the Curb Market," the Albany-Decatur Daily reproduces this paper's report of last Friday's curb market and comments: "Thus does The Star, splendid Anniston newspaper," (we bow to you for these kind words, Mr. Editor) "tell in its news columns of the advantages of the curb market to Anniston and Calhoun county farmers.

Several months ago, more than a year, in fact, it was suggested that Albany-Decatur maintain free hitch yards for farmers. This idea never did take; consequently because there was no Chamber of Commerce to see to it that such a good business proposition received attention.

Hitch your wagons to a curb market, Twin Cities, and you'll never go wrong!—Anniston Star.

MORE THAN MILLION AND A HALF TO BE SPENT THIS SUMMER IN BUILDING

The article appearing on the first page of The Daily yesterday, listing building operations, in progress and projected, totalling more than one and a half million dollars was a revelation to many local people who had not, for one reason or another, taken time to count the totals before.

Considering these amazing figures, is there any wonder that there is such a strong undercurrent of optimism in the entire Tennessee Valley, and especially in Albany-Decatur? Is there any wonder that so many "outside" people have been here either in person or by proxy recently, making small real estate investments and looking over the local field with a view to further investment?

When we consider what actually is happening now and what is anticipated for this immediate territory, the puzzle ceases to be puzzling. Albany and Decatur are forging to the front and the pace gradually is being accelerated.

A feature of this building record, which The Daily considers very significant, is the large amount of money being spent by corporations, big and little, in this territory. It is not reasonable to suppose that the officer personnel has failed to check most thoroughly the prospects of the Twin Cities. These business men have convinced themselves that here in the Tennessee Valley, and in this immediate section of the Tennessee Valley, is destined to be a great industrial section. They are preparing for the expansion while yet there is time.

There may or may not be a "boom" in the Twin Cities.

Many local residents would prefer that there be not. They want a gradual, but consistent growth. This seems assured, but if the present tendency is continued, it is difficult to see how a "boom" can be avoided. An out-of-town real estate dealer, visiting here recently, told the writer it was his calm and deliberate judgment that there would be a full-fledged real estate "boom" here by fall. He declared his conclusions were backed by personal assurances he had received from any number of investors who were preparing to buy property in Albany and Decatur.

As The Daily stated very aptly in Monday's news story: "Truly the day of the Twin Cities is dawning."

THE AGE-HERALD AND ASSOCIATED PAPERS WELCOME TO RANKS OF PATTERSON FOLLOWERS

Few developments of the present political campaign have created such widespread interest as the announcement of the Birmingham Age-Herald and associated newspapers of their support of the candidacy for governor of Hon. A. G. Patterson, of Morgan county. Mr. Patterson's friends here, and they are legion, welcome enthusiastically the decision of the Age-Herald and associated papers in the ranks of the Patterson followers and joins with these papers sincerely in the belief that Mr. Patterson not only is the logical choice for governor, but the candidate most likely to win.

The editorial announcement of the Age-Herald here received high praise, and justly so. Its conclusions were sound logically and its arguments were well marshalled. The effect of the endorsement of the Patterson candidacy by the Age-Herald will be felt immediately in all sections of the state. During the past few years the Age-Herald has established an enviable record as a champion of the rights of the people. On every issue, The Daily and Age-Herald were not in accord, but in the main they have been accord in working, according to their own views, for the welfare and the development of Alabama.

As the original press champion of the candidacy of Mr. Patterson, The Daily, particularly, feels much gratification at the Age-Herald's decision and welcomes the big Birmingham newspaper and its associated papers cordially in this new effort to safeguard the interests of the people of Alabama.

Newspapers are like individuals in many respects. Prestige, another way of saying reputation, counts greatly with both. The Age-Herald has been so conducted by its present management that the people have confidence that whatever course it pursues, that course has been adopted only after due deliberation and consideration of the rights of the people, and that it was selected because the editors of the Age-Herald believed that the people of Alabama would benefit.

With such a reputation already established, it is obvious that the endorsement of the candidacy of Mr. Patterson by the Age-Herald and associated papers, will carry unusual weight with the people of this state. No doubt, the endorsement, itself, has won many votes for Mr. Patterson and, as the campaign develops, and the Age-Herald, by its large circulation is able to reach daily many thousands of readers, it is natural that it will continue to win votes to the cause of the North Alabamian.

The Patterson candidacy is on the upgrade. From now until election day it will continue to gain strength, and the thousands of loyal Patterson backers have new cause for jubilation that they will have the aid and the support of the Birmingham Age-Herald, the Montgomery Journal and the Mobile papers.

JUNIOR CHAMBER WILL BANQUET BUSINESS MEN OF THE TWIN CITIES THIS EVENING

Tonight a number of business men of Albany and Decatur will be guests of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at a banquet at the Y. M. C. A. Naturally the occasion is fraught with more importance than merely seeing that everybody gets something good to eat.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce was not organized as a social organization and is not functioning as such. The Junior Chamber, The Daily is sure, has not invited the local business men to be their guests because of a desire to promote the good-fellowship of the community.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce has called these business men together, because the Juniors feel that they have a message of sufficient importance to warrant the attendance of every person invited.

At the banquet this evening, the Junior Chamber will reveal to their guests the details of the negotiations now being conducted with several industrial owners, who desire location in this section. To get these plants, money will be necessary. That is the frank statement of the case.

The Daily is sure the Junior Chamber would not want anyone to get the impression that the Junior organization is going to dump something good into the lap of this community, with no more exertion required on the part of the community than a mere "thank you." In order that Albany and Decatur may "cash in" on the work the Juniors have been doing, it will be necessary for the whole community to co-operate and it will be necessary for a very considerable part of the community to extend financial aid.

In order that the business men may understand these details, the Juniors have invited a number of business men to meet them at dinner Tuesday evening, when the work that the civic organization has accomplished will be reviewed and the Twin Cities, as a whole, will be asked "What do you propose to do about it?"

Representatives of one big industrial plant will be in the Twin Cities this month. There is a very good chance of Albany-Decatur obtaining this plant. Local financing will be necessary and it is hoped by the Junior Chamber of Commerce that all of these details will be cleared away before the arrival of these representatives. In such event, the Twin Cities, as a location, would be in a very good strategic situation, because the representatives could be told that nothing remained but for them to lay their proposition before the local people and that the funds had been subscribed, provided the proposition was accepted as a sound financial risk.

The chances of Albany and Decatur could be enhanced materially by such action. If the funds cannot be raised in advance, then the next best step is, of course, that machinery be perfected for raising the fund after the representatives have arrived. Certainly this detail should be attended to now.

As had been said before, however, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, alone, cannot do these things. They have found the industries looking for a location, they have arranged for the representatives to come here, they have placed before these representatives all of the necessary preliminary information about Albany and Decatur. They have done all they could do. They have done it without asking the business interests of Albany and Decatur for a single cent. These young men, fired by an enthusiasm to do something for their community, have wrought exceedingly well.

It now is up to the older business men to do their part, to meet their younger fellow-citizens half way.

The business interests of Albany and Decatur can, if they see fit, pick up the burden and help it over the hill. Or they can fail. It is up to them.

FACTORS CAUSING ONE TO LOSE WEIGHTSome Form of Infection, Digestive Disturbance, Diabetes and Kidney Disease Are Among the Ailments Which Reduce the Flesh.By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WHAT does it mean if we begin to lose weight? We always look upon pronounced emaciation as a sure sign of disease. But what disease?

After a severe illness, particularly prolonged fever, it is not at all uncommon for the victim to pull through, thin as a rail. But when there has been no such illness, we must look further for the reason.

You need not be fat in order to have good health. You need not be reasonably plump. You may be extremely thin and yet be perfectly well. It is the losing in weight which disturbs us.

Sometimes the loss of weight has gone on for months and nobody has noticed it. The face is likely to retain its usual roundness long after the limbs and body have grown very thin. It is not until the vest or waist bands become conspicuously loose that you awake to the fact that your surplus flesh is melting.

The hands, particularly the backs of the hands, show the decline and then loss of flesh is very certain to result.

If you have been well nourished or fat and begin to lose weight, you should seek the cause. It may be difficult to locate the reason.

Unless the loss in weight can be easily traced to some definite cause, there are several possibilities which must be considered. The first thing to be suspected is whether or not there is present some form of infection.

Bad teeth or gums, diseased tonsils, infected nasal sinuses, kidney involvement, digestive disturbance, disease of the bladder or heart, pneumonia, etc., are among the possibilities. It is well to see about this once you discover your continuing loss of weight.

Diabetes and kidney disease are among the ailments which may cause the flesh to disappear. A test of the urine should be included in the thorough examination you are having. This may show that the kidneys are out of order, or that the body is not handling its sugar as it should.

It is a good idea to have the blood tested, too. This may help the doctor to decide what is wrong with you. The quality of the blood is of the greatest importance.

A.—This is due to some infection. It should have careful medical attention. If neglected such a condition is liable to cause infection throughout the system.

2.—This is usually due to a nervous condition. Paint the nails with tincture of asafoetida should break this habit.

REGINA L. Q.—What method do you advise for reducing the weight?

A.—Weight reduction is chiefly a matter of self-control as regards diet. Eat sparingly of starches, sugars and fats. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

ed to 100 pounds of coal every two weeks. The restrictions being greater than in war time."

If the strike lasts a few weeks more Britain's steel industry will be compelled to stop. And if that happens, Britain will try an experiment in government operation of mines. Coal is important to every country. In Britain it is as important as air to other countries. Electricity could take its place and falls to the ground.

The aged bishop puzzled to know how an organization could be real enough to throw him out, and not real enough to stand a lawsuit.

There are more mysterious things than that in religion.

WE are all influenced by others. Students have protested against "unfairness and cruelty" that forced human beings to be present at religious services every day. So University officials made chapel attendance no longer compulsory.

Now the prisoners in jail at New Haven, Conn., say they also consider it "unfair and cruel" to make them go to chapel every day. They want the same rights as Yale students. But they are willing to go to church once a week, whereas the Yale men demanded the right to stay away altogether. This shows how careful we should be to set a good example.

FOR about thirty years the British have tried to get rid of Lloyd George and then have begged him to get to work and save them.

When he made wealth bear a fair part of the costs of government, the Tory party said he was a curse, and the Liberals practically disowned him. They would all take their money from England to the continent. But England had such a boom as it never had before. And they changed their minds about Lloyd George.

WAR CAME, Lloyd George first, supplied the money, the unsupplied munitions, then he brought about the end of the war by compelling the allies to unite under a French marshal. Then Lloyd George was the great, glorious saviour of Great Britain.

NOW because he tells the truth about a dangerous strike the Liberal party wants to get rid of him. Presently there will be more serious trouble. Then they will say, "Lloyd George, we didn't mean it. Please go to work again." For information about "man's ingratitude" ask Lloyd George. King George wise enough not to do or say anything, is the most popular man in Britain.

LACK of coal is paralyzing many British industries, shutting down many plants. Each family is limit-will. And the coal strike will speed the day.

WHEN men want alcohol, it is hard to stop them, by constitutional amendment or otherwise. A North Ireland law forbids drinking on Sunday, closes all public houses. A Unionists Ulsterman challenges his fellow members of parliament to get up and affirm that they were not breakers of the law. Only three accepted the challenge, the rest "maintaining an embarrassed silence."

Ulstermen now spend their money on Sunday across the border, in the Irish Free State and Ulster loses $500,000 in revenue annually.

THE French minister of industry discovers that fashion can affect a nation's prosperity. France makes silks, velvets, feathers, rules fashion. Women have been using little material in their dresses and French industries have suffered.

That is to change. Soon American women will find themselves wearing longer skirts, fashions calling for many yards of goods.

IT WAS a great thing for France when Francis the First and Henry the Eighth, gave their party on the field of the cloth of gold, where riotous extravagance of French Nobles caused the intelligent French government to build up velvet, silk and glass manufactures in France by shutting out all foreign competition.

MUSSOLINI is determined to make Italy, everything that a nation should be in prosperity, military power, imperial prestige and good morals. A new law in Italy will send to jail anybody found guilty of using profane language.

Mussolini says truly that "profanity weakens the Italian language."

Slang and profanity weaken speech.

LACK OF PARENTAL AUTHORITY BLAMED FOR GIRLS DELINQUENCY

Judge Virginia Mayfield Delves Into The Socio-logical Questions Of The Day With Scoring The Lack Of Home Training

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 1.—Lack of parental authority is the prime cause of delinquency among girls, in the opinion of Judge Virginia Henry Mayfield who today in a statement to the Associated Press delved deeply into sociological questions of the day.

Judge Mayfield is the only woman in Alabama. She presides over the Second Division of the Domestic Relations Court of Jefferson county, or office gives at least opportunity to study life.

Besides improper control, Judge Mayfield believes lack of training in standards of character and high ideals enter as causes of delinquency among young women. Sordid and unwholesome home environment, she said, undoubtedly drive girls to seek pleasures beyond the parental roof and lack of preparation for any specific work in life was cited as another contributing cause of the downfall of many women of tender years.

Every plays its part in the lives of both the modern spirit of daring leads many astray. The girl of today is looking for thrills. If she surprises her companions with nothing that is unusual when ingesting in gossip, her soul seems to satisfy the jurist declared.

Causes of delinquency among boys much the same as that experienced girls, Judge Mayfield asserted. To these reasons mentioned as affecting young women, she cites the easy temptations which come to boys who associate with girls under no parent-restrictions or who have no home, and the dangers which attend automobile rides where unchaperoned. Liquor drinking and attendant dangers were mentioned.

Breakers in the paths of youth, were idleness and lack of interest in wholesome employment and play. Temptations always come with an idle, Judge Mayfield said.

His court gives especial attention to handling of cases of delinquency among girls under 18 and under ages of 16. This court looks after cases of desertion, non-support on the part of husband, desertion or non-support of minor children, causes of violation of labor laws, compulsory education statutes and laws relating to the Training school for girls.

The work of this court has proved largely effective. Each question before the court has a vital bearing on the happiness and stability of life and upon the question of separating minor children to develop into citizens. The efforts at rehabilitation have been described as faring in their effect.

Judge Mayfield has very decided views on the question of separations, especially among younger married couples. She has found that principal causes are selfishness, neglect poverty and whiskey. Added to these are "in-laws" which she terms "out-laws," on one or both sides of the family. She finds the eternal triangle poor as well as rich and she nagging wives as the origin of a split. Congested living quarters such as tenements which crowd together, was seen as a cause of breeding familiarity which resulted in separation. The same as living in desirable quarters small means was given as one had not been solved by the married folk.

The next question asked Judge Mayfield:

"Women more frivolous than men?"

"Men less faithful?"

"Answer:

"Perhaps women are not more frivolous except as the age is more frivolous and frivolities are more widespread. Probably men are not less faithful, but their unfaithfulness is widely known because women are courageous than formerly entitling infidelity and in appealing to courts for protection from the law."

"What is the trouble with life?" Judge Mayfield was asked.

"Big trouble in her opinion, 'may it be an easy matter to obtain a marriage license, an easy matter to live each for the other for as well as for better.'"

"Right of the child to care and protection from both parents was as the most potent influence in reconciliations after they reached the court. Where there are no children there is less toward reconciliations unless the other parent loves so gently that he or she is mindful of the fact that 'to err is human; to be divine.'

"The question whether women are less willing to assume the responsibilities of motherhood than they, it was the opinion of Judge Mayfield that women of the poorer classes do not seem to resent bearing children until they are forced to a realization of the suffering that results from dire poverty. As a rule the court deals with the untrained, improvident woman who never or her children despite the earnest and unselfish efforts of her husband to provide for his family. In such instances every effort is made through work of probation officers to inspire such a woman with a sense of the true values of life. This means patience and it is as long a process as reformation itself.

School authorities co-operate with the court in enforcement of child labor law and secondary education law to extent that it is now a hard job for a child of Jefferson county, white or negro, native or foreign to miss the education the state provides. The same may be said of violation of the child labor law, as these two offenses are closely related and it will soon be as hard to employ a child for labor that will dwarf his body as it will be hard for a boy to play hooky from school, Judge Mayfield said.

Many tragedies mark the days in Judge Mayfield's court. Recently a woman physically unfit, bent with rheumatism, was discovered by a merciful person and removed to the county almshouse. Authorities there found that she had a husband, a middle-aged man, strong and able-bodied who had deserted the wife for a more youthful and handsome charmer. The wife of the man's youth was told of the law which would protect her and she appealed to the court of domestic relations. Investigation was made warrant issued, husband found guilty of desertion or non-support, and required to sign probation bond to pay through the court according to his means for the support of his wife. This was but one of the many instances where the sick or helpless are left by their natural protectors to the charity of the public.

Welfare forces of the city co-operate with the court for the protection of the dependent and the helpless. Many cases are directed to the court through these agencies. One instance is a story which begins with appeal for charity made to a certain agency by the mother of a brood of five unfed, half-clothed children. This agency, as usual, responded with first aid and following this, with investigation of the cause of this neglect and poverty. Investigators directed the mother to this court when they found there a father who owned a small prosperous business, a man who was strong of body, energetic and working each day who was failing to provide necessities of life for five minor children. Upon investigation made by officers of the court and upon questioning the defendant it was revealed that this man not only owned a business prospering in a small way but that he had made substantial payments on a home and that he had several thousands locked in an old trunk in his home. When questioned about neglect of his family until they were forced to appeal to public for help, he said he was saving his money to finish payments on his home and to invest in his business and because of this he had compelled his family to live for a long time on less than one square meal a day.

Cases of desertion or non-support sometimes come to the court when neglect of a child is first noticed in school. Often a child in school who is dull because he is under nourished is found to be living in a home which is poverty stricken, because of selfishness or self-indulgence of one of the parents. Upon investigation of the case of one child who went to school day after day without breakfast and who had developed disease in consequence, it was discovered that the family was living in poverty because their father was a victim of the "eternal triangle" to the extent that he was spending his small salary to buy baubles for another man's wife.

Of course, men are not the only offenders. Occasionally there is a woman who has no regard for her husband except as he can furnish funds to gratify her vanities. Sometimes too, the court deals with the untrained, improvident woman who never or her children despite the earnest and unselfish efforts of her husband to provide for his family. In such instances every effort is made through work of probation officers to inspire such a woman with a sense of the true values of life. This means patience and it is as long a process as reformation itself.

Many cases come into the court that would be comical were they not so pathetic. After peace of one home had been restored and all was happy as "loves young dream," a negro woman came to the court with a heart so full of gratitude she exclaimed: "I sho' is happier den I ever hope to be sence Joe ben doin' right, an I wants to tell you dat de lady police knows mo bout a man in a minute dan de men police knows bout dey selves or dey kind in a life time."

A great many informal cases come into the court, because whenever peace can be restored with justice to all without formal trial this is done.

The object of the court is rehabilitation, restoration of the home wherever that is possible, homes of negro and white, native and foreign.

The slogan of every officer of the court seems to be never to turn any one away without endeavoring to relieve the trouble if it is possible to do so by investigation in sympathetic understanding, by friendly counsel and by helping one to help oneself.

An illustration of encouragement extended to help a man help himself may be cited in that of a laborer who had been crippled in an accident so that he was no longer fit physically to follow the trade of boilermaker in which he has been proficient. After long illness, bills accumulated, groceries were cut off, a family of four were in need and objects of charity and the one-time independent father discouraged to the point of attempting to take his own life. When this case wa investigated, the fact was discovered that the man was able to do certain kinds of work. Search was made through a probation officer for a job that would fulfill his needs. Such a place was found as truck driver to fill a job temporarily at low wage. Every encouragement was given to the employee to believe in himself and in his own ability to fill this place. The result of this work of probation officers, according to report from his employer, is that the man has made good to the extent that his wages have been raised three times, his old obligations are being met and he is considered a permanent employee.

The court handled 1,712 cases last year and collected for dependent wives and children, including court costs $93,958.95.

GULF NO-NOX

MOTOR FUEL

STOPS KNOCKS

Turns Mountains into Mole hills

FOR many years mechanical engineers struggled to build automobile engines of higher compression. As compression is increased the power line goes up and the fuel consumption line goes down—ordinary gasolines would not withstand this higher compression without knocks, clicks, or detonations—accumulated carbon deposits increased this compression by decreasing the size of the combustion chamber—and the audible sounds of the engine distress grew louder.

It has been our good fortune to produce a gasoline that positively eliminates clicks, pings, and knocks.

Gulf No-Nox and Carbon are Power Twins

GULF NO-NOX MOTOR FUEL withstands compression to a high degree; carbon, increasing the compression of the engine, ceases to be a nightmare as long as it does not interfere with valve action. In other words, it puts carbon to work. More power and greater efficiency is thereby accomplished, resulting in greater mileage.

With GULF NO-NOX MOTOR FUEL in your tank—step on it—you will get the story better than we can tell it.

This Guarantee goes with it

GULF NO-NOX MOTOR FUEL is Non-Noxious, Non-Poisonous and no more harmful to man or motor than ordinary gasoline—that it contains no dope of any kind—that the color is for identification only—that it positively will not heat the motor summer or winter.

GULF NO-NOX MOTOR FUEL is priced three cents per gallon higher than ordinary gasoline—and is worth it.

Virginia Lady Tells of Taking Cardui and Says She Has Since Recovered Perfect Health.

Lynchburg, Va.—"I have taken Cardui several times for a run-down condition and have found it perfectly splendid," says Mrs. Lee T. Marsh, 715 First Street, this city.

"About ten years ago," she explains, "I became so weak I could not go about. I looked like a skeleton and . . . was dreadfully worried about myself. A friend suggested Cardui and I decided to try it . . .

"I kept up the medicine until I had taken six bottles. It regulated and built me up. I improved greatly."

"Last year we drove up here through the country from Florida. I was exposed to the weather and must have taken cold, for I became ill . . . I got run-down, lost flesh, . . . could not sleep and had no appetite at all. I was so nervous that I did not know what to do."

"I thought of Cardui. I began to take it regularly and it was not long before I began to feel better. I took six bottles, one after another, and at the finish of the last one was perfectly well again. Since then I have continued gaining in weight and all winter have been in perfect health."

THE GIRL'S AUXILIARY MEETS

The Girl's Auxiliary of the Central Baptist church met at the church on Monday afternoon. After the meeting was called to order and several songs were sung, group captain, Sarah Ruth Wilson, presented a very interesting program consisting of many talks, made by Misses Susie Thomas, Clara Thornhill, Evelyn Sivley, and Sara Ruth Wilson. Before each talk a passage of scripture was read by Miss Gertrude Wear. Several prayers were offered by the girls and in the business meeting a nominating committee was appointed to report at the next meeting. The meeting adjourned with a prayer.

ALBANY P. T. A. ELECTS OFFICERS

The Central Albany Parent-Teachers Association held their annual business meeting last week with Mrs. H. L. Spencer presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. J. L. Proctor.

The afternoon was taken up with business, the most important item being the election of officers for the year 1926, 1927 as follows: president Mrs. J. L. Proctor; vice president, Stinson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. Roberts; secretary Mrs. Wooster Stinson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Charles Wiggins.

The present cafeteria board not having their report complete, the new board will not be appointed until later.

The Association closed a very successful year with this meeting.

Miss Louise Almon, who was a student the past year of Sulphur College at Bristol, Va., returned Monday to spend the summer with her parents Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Almon. She had as overnight guests the following collegemates, Miss Evelyn Sheppard of Tuscaloosa, Misses Ellen Sanderson and Mary Frances Andrews of Montgomery, Miss Sarah Warrick of Talladega, Misses Rosemond McArthur and Evelyn Summers of Birmingham all of whom left for their homes on Tuesday.

Mrs. B. A. Turner, Mrs. Virginia Graham, Mrs. A. W. Reams, and Mrs. Kimball Jones and daughter, Mary, motored to Muscle Shoals on Monday.

Misses Willie Mae Ivey of Dothan, Beatrice Brunson of Elba, Claudia Dumas of Anniston and Allene Pope of Wilsonville, Ala., have returned to their homes after spending the winter in the Albany schools.

Mrs. Marcia Bullard is in Athens to witness the graduation of Miss Lucy Haywood Binford who finishes the academy course at Athens College this week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Knight motored to Tuscaloosa Sunday to be the guests of her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hamner.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Johnson will leave this week to spend the summer in Tuscaloosa.

Miss Sarah Webb will return Tuesday from Florence where she attended the commencement exercises of Florence Normal. Miss Virginie Webb her sister, was a member of the Senior class. They will leave this week for their home in Tuskegee.

Miss Vista Hughes of Gaines City, Fla., is visiting Miss Beatrice Lee.

SOCIAL AFTERNOON

On Monday afternoon an unique event was arranged for the ladies of Westminster Presbyterian church by Mesdames J. D. Jervis, J. M. Rothfuss, J. J. Solomon, Henry Hartung and Lamar Penney, the gathering taking place at the Penney home. During the calling hours, from four to six, more than fifty ladies called. The living and dining rooms were a bower of beauty, the season's flowers being used as decoration. Light refreshments were served.

MUSICAL TEA CIRCLE NUMBER TWO

MRS. J. B. SCHIMMEL, HOSTESS

Circle No. Two of the Woman's Missionary Society of Central Methodist church was hostess at a musical tea Monday afternoon. The function was in compliment to the entire society. The setting for this very delightful event was the pretty home of Mrs. J. B. Schimmel on Sherman street, Mrs. Schimmel wearing an afternoon gown of beaded flesh georgette. Guests were welcomed in the prettily decorated living room where sweet peas in pastoral shades enhanced the beauty of the interior. A welcome was wafted from the dining room where Dorothy Perkins held sway as decorations. In their midst was arranged a table where punch was served. Mrs. J. L. Gunter presided. Mrs. Gunter wore a gown of green georgette.

A beautiful musical program was given by Mesdames H. O. Troup, R. M. McGlathery, J. M. Pettry. The musical numbers were interspersed with readings by Miss Katherine Hunter whose varied accomplishments has given the public a claim upon her talents.

Mrs. R. H. Wolcott assisted Mrs. Schimmel, her statuesque type of beauty was enhanced by a "Betty Wales" dress of black and white printed silk.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: Is it improper to thank a young man when he takes you home?

SONNY: Is it proper for a young lady to call a young man on the telephone?

SONNY: Is it necessary to escort a young man when he escorts you home, otherwise he will feel that you were not pleased.

SONNY: If you want to extend an instant invitation. Otherwise, it is better to write.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of eighteen and have a young man friend who is very jealous. How can I cure him? He is very sensitive and I realize I must be cautious.

BROWN EYES: I think the only way you can effect a cure of this kind is through a direct appeal to the young man's reason. Make him understand that it is your privilege to go about with other friends just as it is. If you are tactful but firm in your stand he will understand and act accordingly.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl twenty-two years of age, and I went out with a young man of twenty-five for a year and a half. Then one night he kissed me. He surely must have forgotten himself, but, as I have been taught that no man really respects a girl who allows such a demonstration of affection, I have completely ignored him since.

Now I feel I really love this man and would like to regain his friendship. It has been five months since that memorable night.

Please advise me what to do in order to keep his respect and also his love.

MOURNFUL MINNIE:

If you really think that this young man's conduct in this manner was worth a slip, you can forgive him. Minnie, Ask him to call on you and in this way renew his friendship. He will understand that you have forgiven him on condition that he "mend his ways"—and all will be well.

TRUE BLUE:

I am a girl in my teens and am "keeping company" with a man in his thirties, whom I love. Now he has asked me to marry him, but he wants to send me to some good training school for a year or two first. He will pay all expenses. What do you think of the idea?

TRUE BLUE:

I am supplementing your education is an excellent one, my dear. But it would not be proper for you to accept the financial aid of your fiance in this project. Consequently I suggest that you enter school after you are married if it does not interfere with your duties as bookkeeper. In this way you can solve your problem without delaying your marriage.

Names you Should know

YOU like to know names that everybody knows—name of the man who tied lightning to a kite; name of the man who watched a tea kettle and went out and made an engine. Just knowing such names gives you pleasure.

Yet there are names that thousands of people know that can give you much more pleasure in a much more personal way. Names that stand for the best things to eat, to wear, to sleep on, you can buy. Names that if connected with the salad dressing, hat, mattress you select—or any other desirable thing you select—mean it is most desirable. Names written large in advertisements. Advertisements tell why those are wise names for you to know. Why such names greet you in the best groceries, department and hardware stores. Why those names are in the buying vocabulary of thousands—are believed in by thousands—justify belief!

Read the advertisements. Don't ask vaguely in a store for "cold cream," "a skillet," "a vacuum cleaner." Ask for So-and-So's Cold Cream, So-and-So's Skillet, So-and-So's Vacuum Cleaner. Use the names, you have learned through advertisements, that stand for the product that means most to you and most to everybody.

TRADE MARK REG.
By Junius

There was a funeral the other day out in Hot Dog, Ariz., and while the minister was reading the service, two shots were fired in the street outside.

The undertaker tipped forth. In a minute or so he was back again with a smile on his face.

"I secured both funerals," he whispered to the chief mourner.

There is room at the top, but much of it is taken by relatives of the wife of the boss.

Punishment

The landlord—You been sellin' liquor here. You been breakin' the law. Know what that means? That means y'gotta pay more rent.

He Said:
I hereby give notice that my wife has left;
My heart has been broken; I'm sadly bereft,
I'll pay no bills that she may contract,
It's a shame and disgrace, the way she did act.

She Said:
Please excuse my husband, he made a mistake,
He left his wife and child and many a heartache,
In the two years we've been married he bought me a dress,
That cost 89 cents and some stockings for less,
His poor heart is broken, he's sadly bereft,
Don't trust him at all; if you do you'll get left.

No, a chiropractor can't treat you for backbone trouble if you haven't got the backbone.

The burglar had served his sentence and was being discharged from prison. The governor gave him a long sermon on the need to mend his ways and finally dismissed him. But the discharged convict still remained.

"What are you waiting for?" asked the governor.

"My tools."

"You don't mean to say," a husband chided his wife, "that you paid $250 for that gown?" to which she replied: "Oh, no; I left that for you to do."

Boatman to merrymakers: I must ask you to pay in advance. The boat leaks.

"Too often," says the man pessimistically, "the glad hand contains an itching palm."

A Case of Fifty-Fifty.
"I asked you to loan me a hundred dollars, and you let me have only fifty."

"That's fair enough, isn't it? I lose fifty, and you lose fifty."

The only recognized liberal party in this country is dad.

'Twas at a wedding recently this though occurred to me.

That preachers need some self-control to earn their pulpit fee;

How can they keep their faces straight

I wonder anyway,

When they must ask the bride if she will promise to obey?

Five-year-old listening to the radio: Where is the screw you turn to make the music go faster.

Another thing that puzzles us is when the poor flies sleep in an all-night Greek restaurant.

It wouldn't be so hard to get up in the morning if the mercury would.

Most men are quick to embrace an opportunity—when it's wearing frills.

"Prepare for the Long Dreary Evenings with a radio," says an advertisement. Oh, some of the programs are pretty fair, at that.

Dirt is something that grown-ups are always claiming to notice on a school boy's face and hands.

It is unfortunate that girls have only one pair of knees, so their dresses can be hasted a joint or two.

A bride should be well groomed on her honeymoon.

CLOTURE REFUSED

(Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 1.—The senate refused today to invoke its drastic limitation of debate rule on the migratory bird bill, behind which is jammed far miref and other legislation. Discussion of the bill, which proposed federal regulation to protect migratory birds has dragged on for days and is opponents show no sign of coming to a vote.

Frank Lockhart Grabs Indianapolis Race, Flying 400 Miles In Little Over Four Hours

Frank Lockhart, youthful Los Angeles driver, is the winner of the 1926 Indianapolis Speedway classic, driving 400 miles in a little more than four hours and 13 minutes, winning some $40,000 for his four hours of grueling task.

As the flying racers were flagged into the pits, the rain came down in torrents, soaking thousands of spectators to the skin. In the crush for protection under the stands, stretching for a mile long the left side of the track, several women were trampled on and fainted. Costly wearing apparel and the newest millinery creations were ruined.

Lockhart, stopping only once throughout the race, and driving the entire 400 miles without relief, sent his little car 160 circuits of the rough brick 2½ mile course in 4:13:37.78, an average of 94.63 miles an hour. He finished five miles in front of Harry Hartz, a Los Angeles rival, who was flagged down in second place. Cliff Woodbury, a Chicagoan, was third, about a mile behind Hartz. Fred Comer, another Los Angeles entry, was fourth.

Peter DePaolo, the smiling young Italian, winner of the 1925 classic, was fifth, nearly 17 miles behind the winner. DePaolo, however, was driving at remarkable speed at the time the race was ended, gaining steadily on the leaders and might have improved his position if it had gone the limit.

Lockhart Stops 60 Seconds

Lockhart, a graduate of the dirt tracks, won $20,000 as first prize, $9,600 in lap prize money and about $10,000 offered by accessory firms.

He drove a masterly race, handling his car with the skill of a DePalma and except for a few seconds clung tenaciously to the lead after he once took possession of it. He went into the lead at the 152nd mile after Dave Lewis had set the early pace. From the 152nd mile on, Lockhart engaged in a terrific duel with Hartz, always leading until the 252nd mile, when he was forced to stop at the pits for fuel. He was away again in less than 60 seconds, but in the meantime Hartz had snatched the lead.

The young Californian, however, pushed his car to the limit of its speed, sometimes hitting 130 miles an hour on the straightaways and quickly overcame Hartz. He refused to be disturbed from his leading position and was increasing his lead every second until the deluge ended the race.

Thirteen of the original 28 starters finished. All of the foreign creations, four French and two British, succumbed to the punishing test of speed before the race was half over.

The three front-drive cars also failed to stand up and were forced out. The entry, powered with the only two-cycle motor in the race, was wrecked.

The Speedway management estimated the crowd between 140,000 and 150,000, making it the largest that ever witnessed a sporting event in America.

A Baronal combination of base swats, along with the stellar hurling

Up in the Big Leagues there was not much change in league standing when the Athletics were forced to divide a pair with Boston while New York and Washington were idle. In the National big show there was likewise a swap out when the Pirates and Reds split a double-header, Carl Mays winning the first for the Reds while Johnny Morrison took the second for the Pirate squad. Cleveland broke even with Chicago and the Tigers and Browns likewise called honors even as the shades of night announced that Decoration Day double bids were thing of the past.
